- 2) To achieve the purposes described in the "How we may use the information" section;
- 3) To perform our obligations and exercise our rights in this Privacy Policy;
- 4) To understand, maintain and improve our services.

If we or our affiliates share your personal information with any of these third parties, we will endeavour to ensure that such third parties use your personal information in compliance with this Privacy Policy and other appropriate confidentiality and confidentiality requirements we require them to comply with. safety measures.

As our business continues to develop, we and our affiliates may enter into mergers, acquisitions, asset transfers or similar transactions, and your personal information may be transferred as part of such transactions. We will notify you before the transfer.

We or our affiliates may also retain, store or disclose your personal information for the following purposes:

- 1) Comply with applicable laws and regulations;
- 2) to comply with the provisions of a court order or other legal process;
- 3) Comply with the requirements of relevant government agencies;
- 4) Reasonably necessary for complying with applicable laws and regulations, maintaining social and public interests, or protecting the personal and property safety or legitimate rights and interests of our customers, us or our group companies, other users or employees.

4. Information Security

We only retain your personal information for the period necessary for the purposes described in this "Privacy Policy" and for the time limit required by laws and regulations.

We use a variety of security technologies and procedures to prevent loss, misuse, unauthorized access or disclosure of information. For example, in some services, we will use encryption technology (such as SSL) to protect the personal information you provide. However, please understand that due to technical limitations and various malicious means that may exist, in the Internet industry, even if we do our best to strengthen security measures, it is impossible to always guarantee 100% information security. You need to understand that the systems and communication networks you use to access our services may have problems due to factors beyond our control.

5. The information you share

Many of our services allow you to publicly share information about you not only with your own social network, but also with all users who use the service, for example, the information you upload or post on our services (including your public personal information, lists you create), your responses to information uploaded or posted by others, and including location data and log information related to such information. Other users of our services may also share information about you (including location data and log information). In particular, our social media services are designed to allow you to share information with users around the world, and you can make shared information available in real-time and widely. As long as you do not delete the shared information, the relevant information will remain in the public domain; even if you delete the shared information, the relevant information may still be independently cached, copied or stored by other users or unaffiliated third parties not controlled by us, or by other Users or such third parties are kept in the public domain.

Therefore, please consider carefully the content of information uploaded, published and communicated through our services. In some cases, you can control the range of users who have the right to view your shared information through the privacy settings of some of our services. You need to carefully consider whether to disclose relevant sensitive personal information when using our services.

You agree to the processing of your sensitive personal information for the purposes and methods described in this Privacy Policy.

7. How we may collect information

We or our third-party partners may collect and use your information through cookies and web beacons, and store such information as log information.

We use our own cookies and web beacons to provide you with a more personalized user experience and service, and for the following purposes:

1) Remember who you are. For example: cookies and web beacons help us identify you as our registered user, or save your preferences or other information you provide to us;

2) Analyze your use of our services. For example, we can use cookies and web beacons to understand what activities you use our services, or which web pages or services are most popular with you;

3) Advertising optimization. Cookies and web beacons help us provide you with advertisements that are relevant to you based on your information rather than general advertising.

While we use cookies and web beacons for the above purposes, we may provide the non-personally identifiable information collected through cookies and web beacons to advertisers or other partners after statistical processing, to analyze how users use our services, and to use for advertising services.

There may be cookies and web beacons placed by advertisers or other partners on our products and services. These cookies and web beacons may collect non-personally identifiable information about you to analyze how users use these services, send you advertisements that may be of interest to you, or evaluate the effectiveness of advertising services. The collection and use of such information by these third-party cookies and web beacons are not governed by this Privacy Policy, but by the privacy policies of the relevant users. We are not responsible for third-party cookies or web beacons.

You can refuse or manage cookies or web beacons through your browser settings. However, please note that if you disable cookies or web beacons, you may not be able to enjoy the best service experience, and some services may not work properly. At the same time, you will receive the same number of ads, but those ads will be less relevant to you.
